

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to nanofibrous coatings on medical devices such a surgical mesh or stent, wherein the coating is mechanically attached to the device. The principal mechanism for attaching the coating is through causing the fibers to permeate
5 and entangle with the substrate.

10

15

20

1238965.1.089498.0489